

The Jefferson Educator

Center for Faculty Development and Nexus Learning

Who are Jefferson Educators?

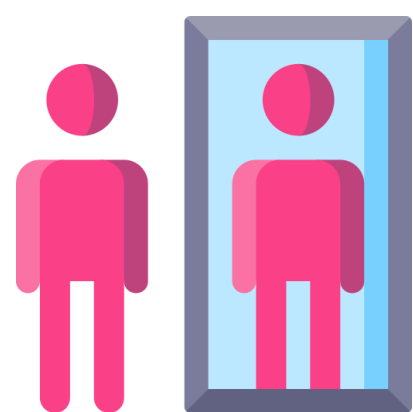

Jefferson Educators are teachers, researchers, leaders, and innovators with a passion for forward-thinking education.

We are inspired by our learners, our disciplines, and our professional practices. We build experiences and programs that simultaneously champion and challenge our learners. We use research-based teaching practices to create learner-centered experiences.

Regardless of environment, we engage learners in collaborative and transdisciplinary thinking. We help learners transform instructional insights into solutions for authentic, real-world problems.

Always willing to experiment with teaching strategies and practices, we develop frameworks for continual improvement that expand with each success and failure. We engage in critical self-reflection and model a growth mindset for our students. In doing so, we develop forward-thinking, lifelong learners who think big and critically about the challenges of tomorrow.

Jefferson Educator Competencies

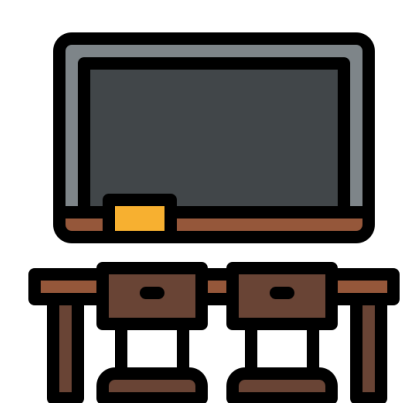

Critical Self-Reflection

Engages in critical analysis of teaching practices to continuously improve learning experiences.

Learner-Centeredness

Implements teaching strategies that shift the focus of instruction to the learner to promote autonomy and success.

Learning Environment Management

Creates a collaborative and inclusive learning environment that engages and supports learners.

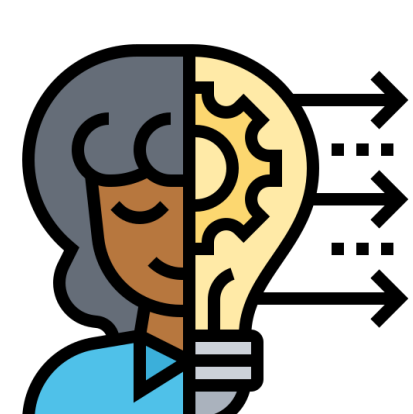

Learning Design

Designs learning experiences that fully engage and support the development of learners' knowledge, skills, and attitudes.

Evidence-Based Teaching

Applies evidence-based teaching and scholarship to promote learner success.

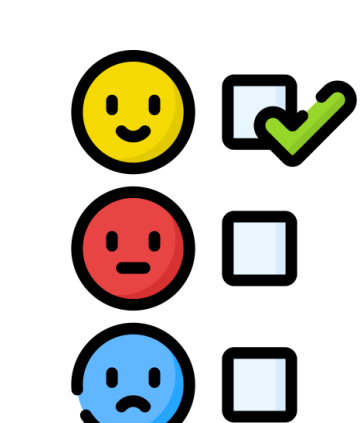

Innovation

Creatively develops educational practices, embracing opportunities to redesign teaching experiences that enhance learning.

Outcomes Assessment

Refines instructional experiences by defining learner success, evaluating learning outcomes, and providing timely, consistent feedback.

Professional Vitality

Continuously cultivates skills that promote meaning in work, professional success, and achievement of personal goals.